Sample Q&A

How did your journey as an author begin?

My journey as an author began years ago. I was angry, isolated and at that time in my life hopeless. A good friend and mentor suggested that I try to pursue writing as a way of releasing some of the pressure that was building up inside of me.

Was it something you always wanted to pursue?

Actually writing is something that I never even gave thought to. For a long time even as I completed my first book of poetry, I had no urge to become a writer.

Where do you see yourself in 5 years?

In five years I see my characters Fatimah and Khadijah Dupree on the screen of major theaters.

What does being an author mean to you?

To me, being an author means the authority to relay on self-expression for the purpose of educating and entertaining.

What's your favorite quote to live by?

"You have to work like a slave to eat like the master!" That is a personal affirmation I use in my everyday grind.

Since becoming an author, what challenges have you faced?

I have to face challenges of trying to balance work, a life-changing pandemic, being a good husband and deadlines. Also, preparing more exciting, captivating literature for my audience to read.

SYNOPSIS:

Identical Strangers is a novel written about two sisters whom, was displaced at birth due to a military mother meeting her premature demise. Fatimah and Khadijah Dupree both shared a maternal legacy that normal children would have lived to be proud of; however the misfortune of losing their mother and the only family they had, instead turned them into hardened heart Assassins. Separated by the Child Welfare Services to Men sworn to uphold and protect our Country, who instead demonized and programmed them to carry out atrocious acts against any members of the armed services who could expose their secrets, the twins was losing all hope of being reunited with time. Miscalculating the pull of human polarity, all those involved would witness two halves of one whole (sisters pulled apart by evil intents) brought back together by destiny, luck and a higher powers malicious sense of humor. The ultimate question is will the bond be stronger and the anger run deeper?

EDITORIAL REVIEW

From the first twisted, yet beautiful poetic line, "I am the conclusion of psychotic conception, but wait it gets worse. Separated from my twin at birth, will prove to be both a gift and a curse." I was hooked! Author Cleve's debut novel, Identical Strangers, reads like a suspenseful movie and it drew me in chapter by chapter. It's been a long time since I've read a book in which I did not want to end, as it held me captive with the tales of the twin sisters Fatimah and Khadija Dupree. Mark my words, Author Cleve Bush is about to breakthrough the literary game with this magnificent piece of work.
